SECTION B: 50 MARKS

51. Read the passage below and in full sentences answer the questions that follow.

School holidays are beautiful moments every pupil usually looks forward. There are three school holidays known for every candidate. Out of these three, the third term holiday is the longest.

Below is how I spent my third term holiday last year. We had barely received our report cards when our class teacher, Mr. Zindo Mark gathered us for a briefing. He said that he wanted to speak to us about holiday plans and activities.

We gathered in the school main hall and listened to the advice from our sixty – five-year-old loving teacher of English. In a fatherly tone, he urged us to be careful.

The following morning, I travelled home and immediately wrote my holiday program. I made sure that I balanced both chores and play on my programme. Like the teacher had promised, I enjoyed the holiday like I had never before.

What shocked me however, was to hear that Ambayo Silna, one of my classmates had passed away. She had mysteriously met her death on a fateful night when she had gone drinking with the village boys. On their way home, Ambayo was knocked down by a speeding lorry and that was the end of her.

On hearing the news, I remembered that she was one of the pupils that had not been attentive during the briefing. It is possible that she had not taken the old man's advice serious. From that time, I have sworn to always have clear and beneficial holiday plans and activities.
