PLE is one of the examinations set by the Uganda National Examinations Board (UNEB). UNEB is charged with the responsibility of setting and making national final exams.

PLE is done by registered Primary Seven Candidates in both government and private schools. It is usually done at the beginning of November every year. UNEB organises this examinations early enough to enable the examiners mark the scripts and compile the results in advance and be ready to be released.

The Minister of Education and Sports announces the results as soon as the results are given to him or her by the UNEB secretary. Dan Odong has served as the UNEB secretary for a couple of years.

As soon as the results are released, several stake holders especially politicians, parents and educationists come up with different comments both positive and negative on the performance of candidates. The politicians may say that the candidates fail because the government has neglected the teachers by paying them low salaries whereas the educationists say that it is because of automatic promotion. This is early seen in rural areas.

On the other hand, parents condemn the teachers and the schools' inspectors for not doing their work well. The inspectors say that they are not given enough money to go and inspect the schools. However, the most important thing is to get united because "Unity is strength" If we all work together the performance of learners will improve.
