SECTION B: 50 MARKS

Questions 51 to 55 carry ten marks each.

51- Read the passage below and in full sentences, answer the questions that follow.

Yesterday our teacher taught us about family relationships. It was a very interesting lesson. The teacher first told us about his own family. He said that he was born in a family of ten children. Five sisters and five brothers. He said that two of his sisters were twins meaning that they were born on the same day.

After a brief introduction, the teacher asked us to define the word 'family'. He wrote the definition on the chalkboard as being a group of people made up of parents and their children. He explained to us that there are almost four types of families. The nuclear, extended, foster and institution family. He said each family has advantages and disadvantages. The main advantage of living in an extended family is that you get chance to know most of your relatives. He asked us to mention some of the members in the extended family. The relatives we mentioned included; grandparents, uncles, aunts, cousins, nephews, nieces and the in-laws.

He also said that in the foster family the children are adopted. They are not biological and neither are they relatives. The institution family has children from different centres of the country who are dumped in places like latrines, rubbish pits, un finished houses and others are orphans.
