Questions 51 to 55 carry ten marks each.

51. Read the passage below and then answer, in full sentences, the questions that follow.

Kevina Maada is an eighty-year-old woman in Nyiro Village. She is widely known for having a bushy home surrounded by a lot of fruit trees. She stays alone in her grass thatched hut. Mangos on most trees ripen and fall down. However, no one is permitted to pick any without her permission.

It is said that whoever does it swells their private organs for the male and for the female, they grow breasts in their fore heads. " Ayiiiiii, that's nonsense, how is that possible!" said Maviiri Longido, a young boy at Malevu Junior School. This boy, with other twin brothers, always dodged school. They claimed that they were too old to attend school, so they used to hide in bushes until 4:00p.m, when their school closed. One day, as their daily meal had always been, they planned to spend the day in the hiding.

Maviiri Longido quickly told his four-man gang about the old woman's fruits. This sounded a total lie in the ears of the listeners since they had never seen such. Tedimulwa, the only girl in the group, also confirmed that she had heard of the same story about the old woman. Despite the two children's told story, nothing changed the group's decision to eat fruit.

Maviiri led his group and in no minute, they had reached their destination. At their first sight lay many ripe mangos. "So juicy and sweet they look!" shouted the excited girl. She quickly picked a handful of them and gave some to Maviiri. Not even washing them, the boy with greed started enjoying. However, Tedimulwa declined to eat as the old woman's story kept running in her minds.

No sooner did the boy finish the second mango than he started feeling something strange. What was thought to be a false story had turned into reality. At this time, Maviiri was scratching his private organs which looked swollen. Tedimulwa and the other members ran away in fear that they would experience the same. Maviiri was now left alone, crying, shouting and scratching his body with a lot of regrets in his head.

Luckily, he was saved by Father Semaketcho Wilsteve, a priest who was going to pray for the sick in the village. This was after hearing someone crying endlessly in the bush. This man of God dashed out of his salon to see who was crying. He found the boy helpless. He had swelled as a result of ignoring the old woman's story. The priest asked the boy what had happened, but the boy could hardly say anything. The priest touched Maviiri, prayed for some time and the boy eventually got well.

From that day, Maviiri swore never to take anything that doesn't belong to him. He thanked the priest and then went back home. Now, Maviiri regularly attends school.

Death, you have made it again
My lovely sibling
You have snatched him from me.

Why are you unfair to me?
Last year, you took away my dad
My only remaining parent
After denying me the chance
Of knowing my mother

A total orphan, I am now
Due to your unkind treatment
To whom will I run?
Who will give me shelter?
So helpless and hopeless I am.

Oh! Death!
I wish I could get hold of you
I would revenge myself upon you
But, let me struggle with my studies
Because it is where my only hope lies.
